New Software Solution Give Doctors a Boost with Easy Access to Clinical, Practice Management Information

[ATLANTA]—Doctors are always looking for a boost, whether it's a boost to their practice performance, patient satisfaction or their efficiency. Now, with CS Boost, doctors have in- and out-of-office web and mobile access to their clinical information, to give them the boost that so many practices need to succeed.

This new software solution for Carestream Dental cloud users gives doctors secure, fast access to appointments, patient search and clinical information through a modern web app on traditional computing devices or via a native mobile application on iOS and Android devices.

Doctors can easily access their schedules and filter them by provider and/or location. When viewing the schedule, appointment details can be accessed to view notes, alerts, provider and even chair location. Doctors can also search by patient name for quick access to patient contact information and clinical history.

The Clinical Snapshot allows for easy viewing of contact information, appointment history, recently completed procedures and all clinical notes. When viewed on a smart phone, the doctor can even contact the patient's pharmacy or find the closest one in an emergency from within the app.

"Say it's a busy day at the practice," Robert Patrick, global product line manager director, dental practice management solutions, said. "Before examining the next patient, not only is the clinical information in the palm of his or her hand, but the doctor can glance at their phone or tablet for patient notes, too. It boosts the doctor's confidence and helps them personalize the exam for the patient."

The app is HIPAA-compliant, with built-in audits and logs to protect practices, and adheres to data viewing, storage and disposal.

CS Boost is just the first step in web-enabled applications for Carestream Dental's cloud solutions. It's currently available free to all CS PracticeWorks Cloud, CS OrthoTrac Cloud and CS WinOMS Cloud users and can be found on Google Play™ and in the Apple® App Store®.
